Of what nature is the future life? A Treatise On White Magic P. 83

June 2, 2011 through June 30, 2011

The mind is the instrument which registers the process of "becoming" but it is also—during the later stages of human unfoldment—capable of registering the nature or function of being. Becoming is revealed through the medium of the intellect; Being, through the medium of the intuition. Glamour P. 174

Conscious Reconstruction: Saving The Planet

There are, as the ancient Wisdom tells us, big wheels and little wheels. There are big cycles and little cycles. There are cycles within cycles within cycles. Our present capacity to comprehend the magnitude of the interlocking harmony and beauty of these infinitely nested four dimensional cycles is pretty limited. However, we have developed the mental capacity to understand that we do in fact live within a multidimensional, infinitely rational and harmonious Cosmos.

Little Wheels

We also have long understood the cycles of some of the little wheels. We understand and harmonize with the cycle of day and night. We live in harmony with the cycles of the seasons and the motion of the Earth around the Sun.

Those who have been able to free themselves from the myopic illusion of dense physical, single dimensional reality have been able to encompass other more subtle dimensional cycles as well. We have learned to understand a bit about the rhythms of these cyclic patterns and how they synchronize with a deeper Cosmic rhythm of inbreathing and outbreathing. And we have begun to learn how to harmonize our livingness with these deeper rhythms.

We have also learned that these cycles are transmission systems for energy waves, and we have learned that these energy waves are not all the same. They carry different frequencies and qualities. Over the eons, we have been able to learn and understand a bit about the different qualities of the energy waves which impact our planet. We have been able to adjust our lives to be more in harmony with these rhythmically appearing qualities and thereby to be more effective in our efforts to serve the Plan.

Big Wheels

So, we are aware of the Cosmic wave cycles that are the Big Wheels. We have some understanding of some of the still major but lesser wave cycles like the 3, 9, and 27 year Earth and Solar cycles, and we are working diligently to synchronize our creative efforts with those cycles.

We have more understanding of the little wheel cycles and the energies which they carry which concern our immediate planetary rhythms. The cycle that we are focused on right now is the inbreathing side of the little wheel cycle in this solar year, 2011. We are well into this inbreathing cycle and will at the full moon of Taurus arrive at its peak. It is interesting to note that this peak inbreath is held in the silence by the Christ from the full moon of Taurus until the full moon of Gemini when it is released into world service of all kinds.

We have become aware of the fact that the power levels of the incoming energy waves have been ramping up for some time. This swell in the energy waves has more than likely been building long before our awareness of it. However, starting in 1945 we experienced the first direct impact of the Shamballa energy wave. We know of and have registered two additional impacts of that energy wave since.

People who have spent time observing the wave action of our oceans say that waves usually come in sets of 9 or 10. The waves become larger and peak at the 9th or 10th. From the way things have been developing, it feels like we are riding the ninth wave, and this would coincide with the alignment of the peaks of the 3, 9, and 27 year cycles of the Solar wave cycle in 2012.

Riding the ninth wave

We are currently, as I said, well into this yearly inbreathing cycle, and we are conscious of the alignments of the energy peaks of the Solar wave cycle. Underlining our sense of the rapidly escalating power levels of the incoming waves, events on the dense physical over the past 5 or 6 years, in both nature and human-generated systems, have been extraordinarily colossal in size and effect.

The driving force in these recent cycles has been augmented with the energy we call Synthesis. Realizing that what we see happening on the dense physical is a shadow of what has occurred on the subtle planes. Images like tsunamis, earthquakes, hurricanes, world around economic collapse, outbreaks of people power demanding and getting freedom, even atomic explosions are inadequate to indicate the actual magnitude of the energy flows that are pouring from the subtle planes into our planet.

The impact at the conjunction of the highest and lowest at the Aries full moon was profound. What we registered in that exact time meditation was so high and so pure that it is still unintelligible to us. However the unmistakable, the unavoidable message was that this was the harbinger of what is to come in Taurus.

We have been focusing our attention pretty much on the physical plane not being aware of the fact that these inflowing energies have moved through the more subtle planes on their way into dimensions that we can actually register. Think 4th dimensionally for a few minutes. Realize that the physical plane is a dimension of energy that is more dense than any other, but is not separated from the other less dense dimensions in any way. Think of the less dense dimensions as an infinite ocean of energy. Waves of energy which originate in the depths of that Cosmic Ocean are constantly circulating in and through these less dense dimensions of Cosmos. There is no separation. All is energy moving at different frequencies and carrying different qualities or Rays as we call them.

We have all observed the effect of throwing a big rock into a pool of water. Big Splash! A series of waves that move in a circle out from the center of the splash. Those waves are energy transmission vehicles. They are carrying the energy released by the impact of the rock on the water.

We think that these transmission waves end when they reach the shore of the pool. Not so. The energy continues to move through the matter of which the shore is composed. This is basically the dynamic of how energy moves through Cosmos.

In the subtle dimensions, the rocks thrown into the pool are the Intentions of a Creator. The intensions are powered by the Will of the creator. When these waves impact the energy fields of various dimensions they move through the matter of that dimension. Since most energy in the less dense dimensions of Cosmos is already in some form, essentially, these energy waves are waves of Synthesis or reconstruction.

If the forms of the matter through which the waves move are in harmony with the intention of Cosmos the reconstruction will build an even more perfect form of that intention. If the forms of the matter are not in harmony with the Cosmic Intention, but discordant and chaotic, the reconstruction will be more violent; however, it will go forward.

It is clear that the incoming energy waves of reconstruction, which is essentially the energy of Synthesis, are impacting the planet and having significant effects. The Intention of Cosmos is balance and harmony. Reconstruction is unavoidable.

When a wave of synthesis energy impacts an area in which people live in form situations that are incoherent or out of harmony with Cosmic Purpose destruction will result. Except to respond rapidly, with loving kindness and right sharing, to the needs of the people in the impacted areas, there is not much we can do in a short term proactive way about the tsunamis, earthquakes and tornadoes which, as unfolding effects of the reconstruction, will continue.

These kinds of so-called natural disasters require long range solutions to the imbalance and incoherence that has generated them. This imbalance and incoherence is a direct result of the heartless disregard and ignorance of our relationship with the ecosystems of the Planet. However, we do have an immediate and crucial co-creative opportunity in the reconstruction of man-made systems of government, economics, education and so forth. If we have the love and will, there is much we can do of a proactive nature about the chaos engendering, huge aberrations and imbalances that we have constructed within the body of the planetary life.

The level at which we can implement new systems that replace, upgrade, bring harmony and balance into those areas which are grossly out of harmony—our financial system for example which is based on the delusional notion that “Greed is Good” or our general economy which is based on the psychotic vision that “Endless War” is natural to the human condition—will make the reconstruction very much less destructive.

The Intention of Cosmos is balance and harmony. Reconstruction is unavoidable.

If we ignore these conditions, or work half heartedly to reconstruct them—which is worse than doing nothing because it is a lie to cover selfishness—and fail to bring balance and harmony into our systems, the kinds of destruction that we will see will eventually be very much more visible and very much more terrible than what an earthquake will do.

These kinds of results are visible now to those who are not half buried in the cemetery of their personal comfort. These kinds of destructions which will proceed eventual reconstruction will be more like the world around, growing problem of shortages or, in some cases, the complete absence of basic needs like water, food, housing, to say nothing of decent life supporting and sustaining employment for millions upon millions of people.

A New York Times front page story reports that one in 50 Americans has no cash income. “Almost six million Americans receiving Food Stamps report they have no income. They described themselves as unemployed and receiving no cash and no welfare, no unemployment insurance, and no pensions, child support or disability pay. About one in 50 Americans now lives in a household with a recorded income that consists of nothing but a Food Stamp card,” the New York Times’ Jason DeParle reported.

The primary victims of these grossly aberrated, human designed and implemented systems based on "Greed is Good" and "Endless War" are, you guessed it, children.

The primary victims of these grossly aberrated, human designed and implemented systems based on Greed is Good and Endless War are, you guessed it, children. The following link will take you to Marion Wright Edelman’s web page for the Children’s Defense Fund. I point to this site because it contains factual data that highlights the depth of the real problem we face as humanity. Check it out.

<http://www.childrensdefense.org/child-research-data-publications>

It would be an easy matter to cite data that reveals how our Government is under constant assault by the lobbyists—the present name for the minions being led by the cadre of Darkness—to steer the Common Wealth into the bank accounts of those who fly the banner of Greed Is Good, or to cite statics about parents who have to watch their children sicken and frequently die because they have no medical insurance, or to list testimonials about men and women who worked for 20 and 30 years at jobs only to end up homeless and on food stamps. These kinds of facts are reported, if at all, very rarely in any media that the general public accesses. And even we who are supposed to be salvaging humanity are not that interested in facing them. Would we rather hear the good news only and take comfort in our jobs and our homes and our children’s education?

We all know that Good is alive and functioning. We all realize that consciousness is expanding, that some of our brothers and sisters are waking up from the eons long drug trip. But these are the facts, Friends. This is the real macro picture of what is going down on this Planet.

The planet is out of balance, big time, and Cosmos will not tolerate it. Reconstruction is happening now. It will continue in this rather destructive pattern until the Planet reaches some kind of harmony with the Plan, after which reconstruction will go forward; however, the reconstructions will be harmonic flows into new more perfect forms.

We all know that nothing happens on this planet unless it comes through Humanity. We are the 4th Kingdom. We are the doorway between the higher and lower three. The Great Invocation says "From the center which we call the race of men let the Plan of Love and Light workout." It does not say that Humanity will be allowed to endlessly screw up the Plan.

Halfway measures may not kill us all, but those who are left may not be that excited about their prospects. Many of us spend hours every day working on behalf of the common good and the general welfare. We need to and we can do more.

The need right now is for heartfelt and engendered solutions to these in-our-face gigantic problems. Such solutions will be practical, clear, commonsensical and understandable by those who either do not have the kinds of esoteric training we have or who are not accessing it.

I am a great advocate of the fact of expanding consciousness. I have written thousands of words about it. A few years ago, I asked myself, "What does consciousness expanding mean, and what does it signify?" I had been working on the notion that it meant that more and more people were realizing that they were not separated from one another, that all humans were in fact interrelated and that we also had an indissoluble relationship and responsibility with and for everything else in and on the Planet. This is, I think, all accurate; however, it is only the manifestation of consciousness expansion.

LoveWisdom is the great Ray of relationship, the carrier wave, the progenitor of harmony and beauty in Cosmos

"When one's consciousness expands", I asked, "into what does it expand?" The answer was that consciousness expands, or better, consciousness becomes able to encompass the Cosmic energy stream of LoveWisdom. LoveWisdom is the great Ray of relationship, the basis of harmony and beauty in Cosmos.

LoveWisdom supplies the motive for the beautiful and harmonious use of intelligence. Where LoveWisdom is lacking or underdeveloped, where the heart is closed and shriveled, there may be great intelligence, and it will generate systems of discord and incoherence.

Until our love for humanity and the planet is stoked into flame, we will continue to see halfway efforts to deal with these problems. The problems will persist and grow until the destruction reaches even the sleepers in the cemetery of comfort. Then maybe we will awaken and do something about it.

Actually, humanity knows, right now, everything that we need to know to enable us to manifest the solutions to these problems in new cooperative systems. Our job is to access the dimensions of solution and to bring the expanded understanding of ideas into the range of our brothers and sisters who are working to build the new civilizations.

Let us think more about our hearts and maybe we will begin to think in our hearts. That is where the solutions are.

Let us think more about our hearts and maybe we will begin to think in our hearts. That is where the solutions are.

Opportunity or crisis, if you like, is in our face. We who understand how energy works have a major practical and proactive role to play. I am haunted by the fact that we, many of us, were in this situation before. We could have performed better. Now we have a second chance or maybe a third chance. We can with our courage and our will prevail. "From the beginning they struggled. From the beginning We conquered."
