The bond with the Fiery World is established by the saturated heart, because this vessel alone permits penetration into the Fiery World. To understand the striving of the heart as a symbol of creativeness brings to the spirit affirmation of the Fiery World. The heart bears the burden of the World. The heart liberates from the earthly burden. Fiery World III, #111

April 29, through May 28, 2014

The Spatial Fire is impelled to the heart, and in this principle is comprised the entire cosmic process. Hence, Cosmos dwells in the attraction of the heart. Only the energies based upon the attraction of the heart produce life. Thus, the life chain is endlessly forged by the heart. Infinity II #68

New Foundations For the New Age

The assertion of the invisible world must penetrate into earthly consciousness. ... Only recognition of the invisible world will afford a knowledge of cosmic manifestations.... Infinity II, 239.

When the shifting impels all forces into action, Cosmos invariably attracts all forces necessary for the future. Only thus is each new step constructed. Therefore, when striving saturates the affirmed manifestation, the shifting takes place. Infinity II, 256

Arguing as men do at present from the basis of the known and the demonstrated and leaving untouched and unaccounted for, those deep-seated causes which must be presumed to be producing the seen and known, all solutions as yet fail and will continue to fail in their objective.

A Treatise On Cosmic Fire P. XIV

Those who are conscious agree that Humanity has entered or is about to enter a "New Age". Universally, Ages have always been defined "from the basis of the known and demonstrated". Thus, "New Ages" have been defined by the appearance of new effects, i.e.; hasn't been here before, new things that can be measured and documented, such as going from a molten planetary crust to a cool crust, from bronze to iron, from the bow and arrow to gun powder, or from "animal power", horses and oxen, to some form of machine power.

In modern times, a "New Age" means pretty much anything that anyone wants it to. For example, this current "New Age" has already been named after several different global altering, more or less simultaneously occurring effects. Since the Air Age, circa 1903-6, we have the Nuclear Age, Computer Age, Space Age, Technology Age, Internet Age, the Cloud Age, and appearing last week, the Facebook/Selfie Age... all changes of great magnitude occurring in a period of 100 years or so.

So, not to be alarmed. Leaving an old and entering a new age is nothing new for the Planet. Even a superficial overview of the Planet's history will reveal that this process has been going on "from the beginning", so to speak.

A Little Perspective On Time

The present speculations, guesses, assumptions of our geologists place the "beginning", or the "first geological eon of Earth" Wikipedia, which for them was the apparent, but unexplained appearance in space of the molten but dense physical planet, around 4.5 Billion years ago.

Focused on the "known and the demonstrated" developments and changes to the dense physical dimension geologists identify and name the periods of lapsed time between changes. These developments were measured, dated, analyzed as to elemental, or biological content and then categorized into some scheme or Class.

The big classifications, labeled Kingdoms, that they have come up with are mineral, vegetable, animal, and human. Apparently, starting with the mineral Kingdom, these Kingdoms manifested or "appeared" one after the other over periods of billions and hundreds of millions of years.

When the Kingdom called "Humanity" actually appears on the planet is vague. One of the things that makes this point difficult to determine is that the actual forms which house "humans" are animal, and are like all animal forms in the animal Kingdom. However, the indicators which differentiate humans from animals are not material, and are therefore difficult to categorize.

Somewhere along the timeline, some animals started to "make tools". This physically documentable fact discriminated the tool making animals from the non-tool making animals. Why these particular animals started making tools was never asked.

The fact is that what discriminates humans from animals is one of those "deep-seated causes which must be presumed to be producing the seen and known". For many people this particular deep-seated cause is known as consciousness. It is a particular frequency of consciousness that distinguishes human beings from animal beings. However, since consciousness cannot, as yet anyway, be measured or "found to actually exist" in any physically measurable form which in a materialistic paradigm is the only way that something can be said to exist, consciousness is not part of the study.

Fortunately, the point of view of the scientific search for meaning has been gradually shifting from an analysis of appearing events or effects to an examination of causes. The examination of cause will, rather rapidly, lead one out of the dense physical dimension into the more subtle dimensions of Reality. It is, therefore growing more and more obvious that Causes, intentioned directed energy, are only found in pre-matter or pre-material states, or in consciousness.

We are, hopefully, rapidly approaching the point when it will be possible for science and humanity to break free from the grip of materialism, and recognize, or to consider as at least possible, that it is invisible consciousness, rather than matter, that is generating the effects we see in the dense physical world, and that these effects are evidence of an evolving consciousness.

Those of us who have made this break, and are used to being considered idealistic dreamers, or just nuts, understand that it is consciousness that organizes and differentiates into an uncountable, unimaginable diversity all the forms of matter in each of the four recognized Kingdoms. This obviously includes those forms which human consciousness, while housed in an animal body, has caused to appear on the dense physical plane. i.e., tools to start with but eventually leading to civilizations, and cultures and all of the artifacts and programs that they include such as government systems, economic systems and so on.

If one were to look at History from this more scientific point of view, one would see that the history of Mankind is the story of the unfolding of consciousness through form.

The conclusions at which humans eventually arrived regarding the nature of Reality were based on this materialistic paradigm.

The Trees in the Garden Rained Flowers

The trees in the garden rained flowers.
Children ran there joyously.
They gathered the flowers
Each to himself.
Now there were some
Who gathered great heaps --
Having opportunity and skill --
Until, behold, only chance blossoms
Remained for the feeble.

Then a little spindling tutor
 Ran importantly to the father, crying:
 "Pray, come hither!
 See this unjust thing in your garden!"
 But when the father had surveyed,
 He admonished the tutor:
 "Not so, small sage!
 This thing is just.
 For, look you,
 Are not they who possess the flowers
 Stronger, bolder, shrewder
 Than they who have none?
 Why should the strong --
 The beautiful strong --
 Why should they not have the flowers?"
 Upon reflection, the tutor bowed to the ground,
 "My lord," he said,
 "The stars are displaced
 By this towering wisdom."
 Stephen Crane

These are basically the premises that throughout human history and regardless of the geographical location of the nation have driven every effort we have ever seen by small groups of "special, or privileged, or superior or Royalists or Supermen or Nazis or Fascists, or, as they presently publicize themselves, "Job Creators", to impose a regime of dominance of the chosen few over the rest of humanity. These conclusions are a major part of the Foundations upon which human culture has unfolded over these many, many ages.

These conclusions which spring from an irrational and illusory view of the nature of Reality are gross errors. They are wrong in basic scientific fact, which anyone who would care to take an impersonal scientific look at the actual planet or just think beyond the limits of the materialistic shibboleths could ascertain.

The Incarnational Mission

The incarnational mission of the individuals who are the progeny of the long path of human evolution, the millions, by now billions, of humans, from children to elders, who have freed themselves from identification with the materialistic illusion, who have evolved to the point of seeing Reality from a "group conscious" perspective, who realize that there is only One Humanity, and that every single human being is a sister or brother, who realize that there is only One World and all of the "Kingdoms" are of equal value to be cherished and nurtured, that this Planet is a "member" of a much greater Being called a Solar System, and that the Stars are truly part of our Reality, the incarnational mission of these co-creators is to establish the foundations of the New Civilizations and World Cultures.

This must be done by us. This is how evolution works. "We hold these truths to be self-evident, that all men are created equal, that they are endowed by their Creator with certain unalienable Rights, that among these are Life, Liberty and the pursuit of Happiness." Thomas Jefferson, Declaration of Independence

These are not pretty words. They are not theoretical philosophical propositions. They are scientific facts. They are not "religious". They are only moral in the sense that they agree with Cosmic Physics, and to design systems which do otherwise is simply immoral and, what's more, as we have seen over and over and over, doomed to failure. These facts must become the foundations upon which the new civilizations will be built.

There have always been those among us who have strived for these ends. They were not those Ayn Rand Atlases who shrugged.

They were and are the Heroes, like Martin Luther King, who willingly gave their lives to move us out of the darkness and into the Light.

However, every system that we have tried to put in place to implement these facts has been corrupted by the power of those who are still held in thrall by the materialistic paradigm. This has resulted in endless Ages of war: ignorance, misery and death. At this moment, these worshipers of material wealth and power are hard at their undermining and corrupting work.

This must stop. "And now there are or there are rapidly approaching a sufficient number" of Conscious human beings to stop it. However, it requires that those of us who know, who have that deep sense of love and caring for the planet and each other to do something. We need to be heroes in our own little venues.

I look with hope to the scientific community for leadership. It is impossible for me to imagine that there are not many, many individuals in the scientific community who are evolved individuals and who are well aware of these issues. Why do they not speak out about what they know to be the facts? We need heroes, all kinds of heroes.

Somehow we must find the courage, which can only come from the fiery heart, to break out of this blinding notion that the INVISIBLE world is not Real.

This is our mission. This is why we have to BE here now.

Ayn Alas
If
At last— or ever even—
Atlas
Had shrugged
He would not have been
Atlas.
It is the tension only
Of such selfless striving
That supports the world—
Holds it all—
Including, Ayn, even you,
In harmony.
Better
You should name your book
Joe shrugged, or shirked, maybe.
