Evolution: The Ever Unfolding Revelation

When we speak of “revelations”, any of the terms we use that involve time are completely relative to someone’s point of view. When a child learns that 2+2 is 4 that is new to the child, but not to the fact that 2+2 is 4. When the child learns this he is experiencing a revelation, or the realization of a, pre-his awareness, existing condition. For that child, that was a “day of revelation” and his/her life was forever altered. What we call a revelation is actually the conscious registration of an effect caused by the energy of an existing radiant thoughtform impacting the conscious awareness of an individual.

As far as I can tell from looking at what little recorded history we have, there has always been a pending day when a revelation, the usually sudden comprehension of some preexisting condition at some level of Cosmos, was going to impact consciousness somewhere. And, given that we live in an infinite multidimensional Cosmos, I suspect that there will always be a pending revelation. In fact, Infinity is a Pending Revelation, and what we call the Plan, being an intrinsic aspect of Infinity, is a tiny, tiny example of such a directed energy.

Infinity is a Pending Revelation!

The phrase “The Day of Revelation” generally means that on some non-specifically given point in time a huge preexisting state of Cosmos is going to become unavoidably obvious to virtually anyone who has the consciousness to register it through the sudden impact of a manifestation of some kind of massive event. In this regard, if we think of a day as 24 hours, things get a little strange. If we go with a Day of Brahma which is 4,320,000,000 years, the size of the revelation, given our current state of consciousness, becomes sort of incomprehensible.

However, for the current situation: assume that the “day” in the “day of revelation” is the “day” (an extremely relative period of time) that the already existing and growing group of many, many individual human beings who already know about the fact of One Humanity and the multidimensional cosmos in which we exist, reaches a “critical mass of receptive consciousness”. This mass of consciousness establishes a negative polarity to the pre-existing facts and will generate a chain reaction of impression expanding throughout the consciousness of the One Humanity. Those whose consciousness can register and contain the expanding positive energy of Truth will on some level experience a revelation. A light will turn on when the positively charged facts of the nature of reality impact their negative receptive consciousness.

On a really tiny scale like the size of our planet we can think of this phenomenon of unfolding revelation as evolution. In the Archeological Records of the planet, there are numerous accounts of huge changes, or, one might say revelations, that take place over millions of years. In the Ageless Wisdom which predates the Christian era there are likewise many reports of this or that human having a revelation.

On an individual human scale revelation usually happens rather rapidly even within a few seconds or so, these mini-revelations are usually delivered by some form of higher presence like a huge sea serpent, a burning bush with a thundering voice delivering a message or in Leda's case a Swan. More common in our experience, is a deep insight in meditation. Although the actual event may take anywhere from a few minutes to a number of years, the resulting effects may unfold over lifetimes.

If you look into the Old Testament or Google the Day of Revelation, or just revelation, you will get millions of hits. Most of these make Revelations sound like something that bursts in and causes some sort of significant change. Like Paul going blind! This kind of revelation works for individuals. Anyone who is actually awake will experience whole chains of revelations, probably without going blind on various dimensions.

On the planetary scale the notion that some incredibly far out cosmic thing is going to burst in on the planet and make everything O.K. (Like overnight!) is probably not going to happen. Now personally, I am O.K. with that scenario. In fact, I like it. However, looking at the history of the unfolding Plan on this planet, it does not seem that major evolutionary events suddenly explode in our face. It is more likely that they evolve over various periods of time and eventually manifest through civilizations and cultures as the mass of human consciousness becomes present to house them.

Looking at the history of the unfolding Plan on this planet, it does not seem that major evolutionary events suddenly explode in our face.

To those whose attention is limited to a three day "news cycle", these, sometimes tens of thousands of years in the making, manifestations, such as the approaching "Day" or the "Coming One", still appear to happen with great suddenness. The last really huge evolutionary event that occurred some 2016 years ago is a good example.

This revelation was not a chance occurrence or a coincidence. It was a part of the unfolding Plan or evolution. This planned manifestation coincided with the alignment of certain “heavenly bodies” the knowledge of which was undoubtedly known by the Planners thousands of years in advance. All of the necessary pieces and players were in place. There had to be a sufficient capacity and quality of human consciousness present in incarnation, that is walking around on the planet, that could actually register and ground the revelation in human consciousness.

The event occurred on schedule, and there was a sufficient field of consciousness available to register its significance. The Retrogressive Forces were apparently very aware of this event and caused a bunch of soldiers to go looking for the manifestation. However, the vast majority of the then present human beings were not remotely aware of it. It was also several hundred more years before the event was recognized by a relatively large group of people as something of importance that had occurred.

According to the records we have, the event which occurred in Bethlehem with the birth of a child, was the actual dense manifestation of Love impacting the planet. The event signified the manifestation of an enormous evolutionary development. That it was a development that makes the slamming into the earth of a huge asteroid seem like a small ripple on the Ocean of Time is still not understood by the majority of humans.

When intelligence is guided by Love, we have an energy we call Wisdom.

development of intelligence was the goal of the first iteration. Love is meant to be the guide of the evolving intelligent species we call humanity. When intelligence is guided by Love, we have an energy we call Wisdom.

In the BL (Before Love) period, the highly developed intelligence of many humans was governed by ancient laws, many of which were the product of Retrogressive Forces. The primary drivers of these laws were the will to live, and the constant fear of death. (Imagine, being afraid of something that does not exist!) This condition pretty much explains the barbaric behavior of humanity during the some 5 to 6 thousand years of the documented period of our history.

(Obviously, this condition still exists in a large measure. We call it competitive capitalism now. And that death is a fantasy that does not exist is a revelation that is still not “realized” by the vast majority of humans.)

The appearance of the Avatar of Love whom we call Christ was the significant

According to the Ageless Wisdom this is the second planned iteration of the manifestation of Earth. The notice that the capacity of the human heart to lead the mental vehicle had evolved and spread far enough that through the exercise of our Free Will we could choose to actually begin the conscious development of this Energy in the mass of the animal bodies which were being used to house incarnating souls. The present conditions on the planet, both the awful and the wonderful, are the effects of our freely chosen path, and the measure of our progress.

Again, to the consciousness that is focused on a 2 or 3-day news cycle it may not appear that we have moved very far. However, those who have a little deeper and broader view may see the ongoing unfolding of the day of revelation in the crumbling of an ancient civilization as the new one pushes up through the decaying old one.

All this is to say that Revelation is a step in a series of Cause and Effect relationships. Evolution is about Energy and Science. It is not some random, accidental bunch of happenings driven by someone's desires or fears.

There is Reason and Wisdom at work, in evolution. We call it the Plan. A very important aspect of evolution is Free Will. The Plan cannot be imposed on Humanity. What is being evolved is a humanity that can freely choose to cooperate or co-create with Cosmic Intention.

Such a group has been in the process of manifesting on the planet for many thousands of years. That this group is approaching a point of critical mass seems obvious from the way that significant changes in all areas of planetary life—many of which are seemingly disastrous but many of which would have been totally unbelievable fifty or a hundred years ago—are occurring.

It seems quite clear that as evolution unfolds, the presence of the energy of Love will become the dominant driver of the evolution of the Plan. The presence of these energy frequencies on the planet will gradually become incompatible for the support of a form-identified and separative consciousness. Such consciousnesses will not be able to sustain an etheric or dense physical vehicle within the frequencies of Love.

Again the problem arises regarding time. It seems only reasonable that changes of these magnitudes will not burst in on us but will happen over time. Since we all agree that the 5th Kingdom is in the process of manifesting and that Christ is in the process of reappearing, the "Day of Revelation" is more than likely also appearing right now. Of course, to see it coming requires, probably first of all, a realization or experience of the fact that evolution is—rather than a random hit or miss deal with an asteroid or some miraculous appearance of some extra-systemic being or a gigantic flotilla of pyramid shaped space ships with people who will do in all the bad guys and make Earth a Garden Planet—a very scientific issue regarding the Cause and Effect process of an unfolding Plan.

The Plan cannot be imposed on Humanity. What is being evolved is a humanity that can freely choose to cooperate or co-create with Cosmic Intention.

As I indicated, it seems reasonable that in order for there to be a “day of revelation”, the pieces have to be in place. The alignment of certain “heavenly bodies” must be in process of aligning; there has to be a sufficient number of human beings who are capable of registering that it is happening. The Plan unfolds. The actual “day of revelation” unfolds too. It sort of started (who will say how long ago) maybe with a sun rise, as we struggled to reach those conditions.

So, looking at one’s incarnation in this very much larger picture, the ancient question comes to mind, Why this? Why now? What are we doing here anyway?

The day of revelation is present on the dense physical plane in the consciousness of those among humanity who are endeavoring to live within the already present higher frequencies of the New Age.

Well, we have heard of the forerunners. Those of us who already register to some degree the conditions of consciousness which will be more and more obvious and eventually characterize the days after the “day of revelation” are aware of those conditions and are trying to adjust our own daily lives to them.

Mainly, for most of us, I suspect this has to do with the daily effort to move the center of motivation from its ages long location in the consciousness of a deluded, separated personality, to the realization of brotherhood, the fact of the interconnected Reality in which we live, or as it has been vaguely described for centuries the consciousness of the soul. This is the scientific process of the evolution of consciousness which we have known as the Path of Initiations.

Like everything else in the Great Unfolding which we call evolution, the Day of Revelation is here even now, depending on where and when one says “now” is.

My own view is that now is here and now. And the day of revelation is present on the dense physical plane in the consciousness of those among humanity who are endeavoring to live within the already present higher frequencies of the New Age. Eventually, sooner rather than later, sufficient numbers of us will be in sync with these frequencies and we will be in position to control the processes of life on the planet, the governmental, economic, and social systems.

It is interesting to realize that the “reappearance of the Christ”, an unavoidable aspect of Evolution has seldom been connected with the Day of Revelation. This, I suppose is a natural effect of the glamour and illusion that various religious establishments have generated around who and what an Avatar is, and the grossly mystifying presentations of the higher dimensions, mystifying to the point that even today modern science does not validate their existence. In fact, the “day of Revelation” and the “reappearance of the Christ” are two names for the same unavoidable evolutionary event. On one level it signifies that Love is once again in control of the Great Unfolding

The second stanza of the Great Invocation clearly states that Christ is Love.

The turning of the planet into a garden of Eden which is part of the plan will take some time even after we have gained actual control of the levers of evolution.

The second stanza of the Great Invocation clearly states that Christ is Love. The “decades” of revelation began on the day we realized that, and began the long struggle to implement it in policies “more expressive of the divine nature”.

However, as we have been seeing when evolution gets going it moves with what to us is amazing rapidity. It took only about 1776 years after the impact of Love to manifest a nation dedicated to justice and freedom for All. Try to imagine the planet in just a hundred or even fifty years. We won't be in Kansas anymore.
